INTRODUCTION

Digital advertising and marketing is the system of advertising of products or services of agencies the use of virtual technologies available on net which include cell phones, show advertising, and some other virtual medium like Google and Fb commercials etc. Philip Kotler is taken into consideration because the “Father of Modern Marketing”. The introduction of digital advertising may be traced again to the time of early Eighties. Before Digital advertising and marketing we had Traditional Marketing, that is a conventional mode of advertising that helps to attain out to a semi-focused target market with various offline marketing and promotional methods which may have advanced during the last few decades.
Digital advertising encompasses all advertising efforts that use digital tool which includes cellular telephones computers or the net. Businesses leverage digital channels along with social media, e-mail, and different web sites to connect to modern-day and potential customers. Digital Marketing is described by way of the usage of numerous virtual procedures and channels to connect with customers wherein they spend a great deal of their time on-line. There are many sorts of Digital advertising and marketing implementation strategies together with Search Engine Optimization (search engine marketing), Search Engine Marketing (SEM), Social Media Marketing (SMM), Content Marketing, Email Marketing, Online Advertising, internet site, Affiliate Marketing, Viral advertising. $one hundred twenty billion is the quantity the U.S. Will spend on virtual advertising in 2020, Boost Ability says. That wide variety equals nearly half of the total amount spent on media. The function of digital marketing is growing dramatically. Boost Ability states that from 2016 to 2021, the quantity spent on social ads is expected to double ($15,016 to $32,977). The amount spent on display commercials and on-line videos will growth, too. Before long, virtual advertising and marketing is anticipated to outperform conventional advertising and marketing techniques. People absolutely decide on on-line content. Kevin O’Kane, managing director for Google Marketing Solutions of Google Asia Pacific, described the Internet as rocket gasoline on the subject of commercial enterprise boom.

REVIEW OF LITERATURE

Measuring Social Marketing : The often-unanswerable prediction is whether online marketing campaigns will be effective in the short and long terms (Oracle, 2008). Online marketing is difficult to execute successfully and measure adequately (Ranaweera & Prabhu, 2003). The quest for reliable metrics means that some marketers will shy away from implementing online tactics that draw only short-term attention to tactics that actually allow for prospect identification and capture of behavioural data (Riegner, 2011). Based on Trusov, Bucklin and Pauwels(2009) much of what happens in social marketing are little more than experimental, or simply about “insights” rather than metrics.

Many marketers feel the need to “tie” the social media box and demonstrate how cutting edge they are, while the primary drivers of their campaign remain embedded in traditional media (Guba & Lincoln, 1991). There is a need to affect a paradigm shift from a traditional “more is better” approach. While many social marketers fixate on volume metrics (website traffic, hit rates, click-throughs, time spent on-line, postings etc.), successful social marketing often depends more on qualitative metrics for desirable signs of the tone, quality and customer benefit of the interaction (Cronin, Brady & Hult, 2000; Fisher, 2006). However, such metrics often need to be customized for individual campaigns and need to be considered in the pre-launch phase, ideally incorporated in message testing (Robey, 2011).

Baker (2009) stated that consumers learn about brands through social media. Harridge and Quinton (2012) estimated that consumers generated more than 500 billion impressions about products and services through social media in 2011, approximately one-quarter of the number of impressions created through all forms of online advertising. Those earned media impressions help people learn about products.

In a recent study, Riegner (2011) found that Facebook users are over 50% more likely to recall an ad when their friends are featured in it. For instance the percentage of consumers who use ratings and reviews to inform their decisions about online purchases increased from 12% in 2009 to 57% in 2011. Consumers increasingly consult social media as they purchase. Kaplan and Haenlein (2010) they define social media as “a group of Internet based applications that build on the ideological and technological foundations of Web 2.0, and allow the creation and exchange of user generated content Sinclaire and Vogus (2011, 294) cite O’Reilly’s (2005) definition: “social media is a broad term that describes software tools that create user generated content that can be shared.” However, there are some basic features necessary for a website to meet the requirements as a social network website: the site must contain user profiles, content, a method that permits users to connect with each other and post comments on each other’s pages, and join virtual groups based on common interests such as fashion or politics, (Gross & Acquisti, 2005; Ellison, Steinfield & Lampe, 2007; Lenhart & Madden, 2007; Winder, 2007; Boyd & Ellison, 2007 as cited in Cox 2010).

(Gross & Acquisti, 2005; Ellison, Steinfield & Lampe, 2007; Lenhart & Madden, 2007; Winder, 2007; Boyd & Ellison, 2007 as cited in Cox 2010).

The phrase social networking sites’ is often used interchangeably with social media. However, social media is different because it allows participants to unite by generating personal information profiles and inviting friends and colleagues to have access to those profiles (Kaplan and Haenlein 2010). Thus, social media is the environment in which social networking takes place and has altered the way in which consumers gather information and make buying decisions. Social media has advanced from simply providing a platform for individuals to stay in touch with their family and friends. Now it is a place where consumer scan learn more about their favourite companies and the products they sell. Marketers and retailers are utilizing these sites as another way to reach consumers and provide a new way to shop. “Technology related developments such as the rise of powerful search engines, advanced mobile devices and interfaces, peer-to-peer communication vehicles, and online social networks have extended marketers’ ability to reach shoppers through new touch points” (Shankar et al. 2011).

Palmer and Lewis (2009) Social media has gained a lot of popularity over the past few years and as a result of this popularity, other traditional Media have experienced decline in both business and popularity. They argued that the main stream media channels have faced many challenges in recent times that have led to closure with TV facing down turn in their profits levels. Palmer and Lewis are correlating the performance of these traditional channels to the rise of social media in marketing and brand management. As a result of completion and tough economic environment, companies have tightened their budgets especially advertising budgets which have shifted to online channels.

According to Forrester research study (2011) by Ernst.J, David M. and Cooperstein, Dernoga, found that companies (brands) are gradually shifting their advertising priorities to align better with today’s buyers. Todays buyers are tech savvy and social media maniacs. Therefore it is the proliferation of the social media network services in brand management and marketing that bring us to the attention of social media networks. First, there searcher will define social media and then outline those networks that are driving the debate.

Chaffey et al. (2003) describe internet marketing as the application of the Internet and related digital technologies to achieve marketing objectives (Chaffey et al. 2003, 1). These marketing objectives can be realized by use of social media networks which is a subset of internet application. Social media networking platforms serve as a tool for marketers (Qualman, 2010) This implies that Facebook, twitter etc. are means of accomplishing marketing strategies through the internet. It is therefore imperative for marketers to find suitable platforms to suite their marketing objectives. A good marketing objective enables marketers to acquire new customers, while retaining the already existing ones through customer satisfaction.

Kaplan and Haenlein (2010) define social media as “a group of Internet based applications that build on the ideological and technological foundations of Web 2.0, and allow the creation and exchange of user generated content.” According to Kaplan and Haenlein (2010) web 2.0 is a platform where content is continuously altered by all operators in a sharing and collaborative way. Web 2.0 is a web based technology which helps to create highly interactive platforms through which individuals and communities share, co-create, discuss and modify user generated content. Social media are the websites which are build upon the technological foundations of web 2.0 that help a user to create use generated contents that can be shared. This technology allows a user to create and publish the content on the social media networks. This information can be shared with other members of the social media website, who are connected with the user. This process is interactive where other members can also respond in different ways.

Mangold and Faulds (2009) describe social media as the set of online word of mouth forums which includes blogs, discussion boards, forums or social networks to name a few. Using all mobile and web-based technologies, social media creates highly interactive platforms by bringing to get her individuals and creating communities. Internet has a lot of websites; each of them has different functional attributes and caters to different sections of society. Websites like facebook are for general masses but LinkedIn is focused on professional networking. Media sharing sites (i.e. YouTube, Picassa and Flickr) or blogging platforms (i.e blog spot, wordpress) are also members of this ecosystem called social media (Kietzmann et al., 2011). Social media has equipped the organization to establish an direct relationship with the consumers. Both of the organizations and consumers are free to generate content on the web pages, which further leads to conversations and discussion. Organization on one end are provided with an opportunity to share their information with a large base of customers and on the other end consumers are also free to publish any content whether positive or negative regarding the information.

Weinberg (2009) Defined social media marketing is a new marketing strategy which almost every business is adopting to reach their consumers on the virtual networks. If you have an idea and you want it to reach millions, at a very little cost, then social media is the only way-out. Entertainment companies were the first to adopt the social media as a promotional tool. Weinberg (2009) has defined social media marketing as the process that empowers individuals to promote their websites, products, or services through online social channels and tap into a much larger community that may not have been available via traditional channels. So if we keep it simple, social media marketing is the process where organizations use social media websites to build rush on their company official websites. It does not stop here but organizations also inform the potential customers of happenings in the organization, launch of the new model or product and latest news about the organization through social media applications.

Gordhamer (2009) has related social media marketing to the relationship marketing where firms need to shift from “trying to sell” to “making connections” with the consumers. This explanations of social media marketing takes us to the other side of marketing, where building relations with the potential consumers is the key to repeated purchases and enhanced brand loyalty. Social Media is an innovative tool that organizations use for creating very strong public relation with the customers on the virtual networks (Jan & Khan, 2014).

Maintaining public relations through social media has become easy because a large number of potential consumers are available on the virtual networks. And making connection with consumers using social media is only some clicks away. Today’s customers are more powerful and busy; therefore companies should be reachable and available in every social media communication channel such as Face book, Twitter, Blogs, Forums at anytime (Gordhamer, 2009). Exploiting the opportunities provided by the social media communication channels is important for every organization.
OBJECTIVES OF THE STUDY

- Email and Mobile Apps when used as customer retention channels can be measured in customer retention, repeat use, engagement, leads and sales
- Display and Social media when used as awareness channels can be measured in reach and engagement
- When you understand what the measurement and goal of a channel is, you can use diagnostic metrics to evaluate success even further. Some examples of metrics used to diagnose success include:
  - New versus returning users and increased sales or conversions for customer retention channels

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

Type of universe:

The first step on developing any sample is to clearly define the set of objects technically called the universe to be studied

Research design is the arrangement of conditions for collection and analysis of data in a manner that aims to combine relevance to the research purpose with economy in procedure.

Sample design:

Convenient sampling

This sampling method involves purposive (or) deliberate selection of particular units of the universe of the universe for constituting a sample, which represents the universe. When population elements are selected for inclusion in the sample based on the cause of access it can be called convenient sampling.

Sampling unit:

Sampling unit consists of customer in Pollachi and Coimbatore

Size of the sample:

It refers to the number of items to be selected from the universe to constitute a sample. Here the researcher has selected 100 elements of end users. The sample is 60.

Collection of data:

There are several ways of collection the appropriate data, which differ considerably in context of money cost, time and other resources at the research. data collection can be done through collections of primary data and Secondary data

Primary data:

The primary data are those, which are collected a fresh and for the first time and thus happen to be original in character. An interview schedule has been used to collect the primary data schedule. It means the data collection resembling the collection of data through questionnaire with a difference that schedule is filled by the researcher.
Secondary data:

The secondary data on the other hand includes those data, which are collected for some earlier research work and are application in the study. The researcher has presently undertaken, for this analysis the sales data are collected from marketing information system.

Analysis of data:

The primary data has been analyzed using the simple percentage analysis method.

Suggestion:

Based on the findings the researcher has recommended certain suggestions.

advertising. For instance, clever segmentation can grow your revenues via up to 76%.

FIVE SOCIAL MEDIA MARKETING

Social media advertising specializes in constructing brand attention and growing conversions. A social media advertising and marketing campaign can feature one or several social media platforms, depending at the audience and their platform possibilities. A few of the maximum popular systems for this Internet advertising approach includes Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Pinterest, LinkedIn. In addition to advertising and marketing the agency on social media, this strategy regularly makes a speciality of advertising too. The core purpose of social media advertising and marketing is to growth emblem cognizance and conversions, as well as construct and keep your organisation’s popularity. That is why social media advertising and marketing specializes in creating informational and promotional content, plus interacting with customers on the numerous platforms. With much less than 30% organizations the use of social media as a marketing strategy. Even better, greater than 25% of a person’s Internet time is spent on social media — which means it’s an excellent outlet for connecting. A few different reasons to apply social media advertising consist of:
More than sixty five% of purchasers use social media for customer support. Users depend on social media for extra than sharing content with buddies and own family. They additionally use it for connecting with companies, whether or not by highlighting a positive purchasing enjoy or inquiring for a organisation’s help. If a commercial enterprise is inactive on social media, they depart users with restrained options for contacting the said business. Inconveniencing their clients can lead to low patron retention, which has an instantaneous impact on the sales.[11] That is why having an active presence on social media is crucial.

VOICE SEARCH OPTIMIZATION With voice seek optimization, business enterprise optimizes present and new internet site content for voice search. The goal is to earn the website the featured snippets or role zero spot in Google search results. The various voice assistants, from Siri to Amazon Echo, use the featured snippet to respond to voice searches. So, if a person asks, “find a sushi eating place near me?” Amazon Echo or Siri might reply with the featured snippet. As search queries vary when using voice, as opposed to textual content, voice seek optimization is important. If a person’s a nearby enterprise, this approach is even extra powerful as many customers rely on their cell devices and voice seek to discover a restaurant, salon, or grocery shops or to do vital chores The intention of voice search optimization is to earn the featured snippet for keywords applicable to the target audience and business. The corporation increases its on line visibility to clients and expands its goal base which can cause stop visits, product purchases, and more.[12]

With more people purchasing smartphones with voice-activated speakers, voice seek is the maximum popular way to search. It’s one of the newest virtual marketing strategies for agencies to undertake. 50% of adults use voice searches each day. Analysts assume this percent will growth similarly in upcoming years In flip, early adopters of voice seek optimization will benefit the maximum — their websites will already rank for featured snippets, main to accelerated visitors from purchasers to your target market. More than 1/2 of voice activated audio system need promotional brands like email, consumers need promotional content material from manufacturers. They need to understand about your sales and new merchandise, that is why making an investment in voice seek optimization today can gain your brand later, while voice-activated audio system provide those promotional options to companies.
